Client Maneuvers and Defensive Tactics

This defensive tactics course concentrates on a few excellent hand-to-hand and standup grappling techniques that build upon the student's previous experience rather than attempting to teach a traditional martial art or system. The methods are drawn from a broad base of techniques that have been tested and integrated into the professional field of personal and executive protection as well as training of military and government services. This course is concerned with developing measured response to threats short of life-threatening situations. The focus of the course is face to face weapon disarms, standup grappling, strategic striking, stabilizing and control. The Defensive Tactics also covers managing and movement of client in crisis events. The class will deal with crowd control and client management in crisis situations.
